2.2.1- The institution assesses the learning levels of the students and organizes special Programmes for advanced learners and slow learners

In the Hospitality industry, addressing the various learning needs of students is important for nurturing future Hospitality Professionals. Anjuman-I-Islam CHTMS&R as a Higher Educational Institute plays a vital role by assessing students' learning levels and organise targeted programs for Advanced learners and Slow learners.

First we evaluate students' learning abilities through Periodic assessments; we also have interactive discussions with them and then review their performance. This helps identify advanced learners who grasp concepts quickly and slow learners who may require additional support to bridge knowledge gaps.

For advanced learners, specialised programs such as solving Psychometric Tests, workshops, research opportunities are designed to challenge their intellect and enhance their skills, and for slow learners we focus on the very basic concepts, repeat practical sessions, and one-on-one mentoring. Additionally videos were made and uploaded for the students so that they can refer at their convenience.

By implementing this dual approach, the institute ensures an inclusive learning environment that caters to varied learning paces. This holistic strategy exemplifies the institute's commitment to empowering every student to achieve their fullest potential.
